About this wiki

My last two research papers were created and submitted by using a personal wiki. It was fitting since my papers were on the Government of Canada and Web 2.0. There are several benefits of using a Wiki for one's academic research; it makes your research more accessible to others, and easier for others to submit to you corrections, you can keep all your sources together, and you can demonstrate to others the value of the knowledge you have collected.

Since submitting my papers, I have created this GC20 wiki to share my research, sources, and work collaboratively on my third (and final) paper.
